6 WEBER 6

Ordinary Piano Standards Do Not Apply to the Weber

HE usual piano arguments relate to tone, to durability, to action, &c. In the Weber Piano, all these qualities are taken for granted.

We invite you to listen to the Weber as you would to some wonderful violinist who has the power to hold great audiences entranced.

For the Weber is more than a mere creation of wood and metal. It possesses a soul that speaks in tones of purity and richness, that might well have been the palette on which the master Chopin himself mixed his colors.

For those who have a cultured ear and who have a fine appreciation of music in its higher forms, the Weber Piano represents an ideal.

As sole agents of the Weber Piano in this section, we request the opportunity of demonstrating what wonderful progress has been made in the manufacture of pianos during the past few years.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

FROM WOMAN'S POINT OF VIEW

Of women's clubs there are many, and only a fair proportion of them have a reasonable excuse for existence. But women need to be taken out of the ruts hey wear by a ceaseless round of mootonous tasks, and clubs serve that very purpose. The average woman regards ne club with favor, and the few cannot nd too many; but the single club woman s liable to have a deeper interest in her organization than the few whose names igure in several diversified objects.

I really believe that it is absolutely necssary to feminine health to have some nterest outside of the daily occupation. Home women, in particular, are prone to gloomy thoughts when they remain closey indoors and see few faces outside of the family circle. The business woman, like the business man, is stimulated by laily rubbing of elbows with new people. by hearing fresh arguments and new houghts, and seeing unusual sights. She can be left to spend her spare time at ome in safety.

The most recent addition to the growg list of women's clubs is one which ught to receive the commendation of ensible persons of both sexes. It might easonably be expected that an associaion which aims to make life a fine art would appeal to the men of the family. for it means a knowledge of the commo sense of life, a frank discussion of everylay happiness, of the troubles that make misery, the little and big things of daily living. Of course, there will be found remedies for mistakes and caressness and a stimulus for avoiding them n the future.

It would be worth while to keep a list of troubles for which to seek assistance, and another of aids to happiness to be AH Women Are His Subjects and In massaging it is usually necessary to passed on to those who need them. It is to be hoped that the club will not be confined to its birthplace-New York-but will put forth branches which will reach every corner in the world where women have the least desire to be clubable. There is no good reason why happiness should not be paramount, for it is a wonderful sweetener of life.

The loveliest women of my acquaintance are happy women, not because they but because they are bent upon extracting every drop of sweetness from life to Albert Chevalier, England's Famous Comadian.

LADIES TUCKED SHIRTWAIST. Paris Pattern No. 2203 All Seams Allowed.

This jaunty tailor-made shirtwaist, with a wide tuck over each shoulder, having a Gibson effect, is made of viyella flannel. The waist closes at the center-front under a double box-plait, and a small pocket ornaments the left front. The rather full sleeves are gathered into straight cuffs of the material. and the back is slightly gathered at the waistline. The high turn-down collar may be made of the material, or a white linen collar may be worn. The model is suitable for any of the fancy woolen or linen shirtings, as well as for silk or madras. The pattern is in six sizes-32 to 42 inches, bust measure. For 36 bust the waist requires 4% yards of material 20 inches wide, 3% yards 27 inches wide, 21/2 yards 36 inches wide, or 21/4 yards 42 inches wide.

I thought I'd get called down at least and probably be given the blue ticket

"And what do you think, Miss Cameron? The managing editor told me that I'd been doing mighty good work and raised my pay. Say, it was all I could do to keep from telling him he was making a mistake." All of which goes to show, of course, that you can't always tell.

And they get the idea that wifie was either scared into buying it or that the milliner is a hypnotist of rare and wonderful powers. The ladies, we have no doubt, do the very best they can. They have to get up early in the morning to keep up with the fashions, and if they drop out for a few days they are just as likely as not to find that the styles have changed and they may be caught in broad open day wearing right on the street some dress or hat that nas been old-fashioned for a week. Think of the horror of it! Just who it is that makes the fashions the men who pay the bills have never been able to determine. He wisely remains in hiding somewhere in the vicinity of Paris. But when he passes the word down the line his influence is more powerful and his commands are obeyed more quickly than those of any other sovereign on earth. Nearly all women are his subjects and the men of every fashionized ation pay him tribute winter and summer, spring and fall. The man who makes the fashions is the man who keeps the world guessing.

Tub Frocks for Tots.

For tub frocks that are to see hard wear French pique is perhaps the most satisfactory thing. It keeps fresh longer than most white stuffs, wears well, is comparatively warm and is well adapted to the Russian lines which still pre vail among the everyday frocks of the very little girl.

Simetimes these pique frocks are made quite costly and elaborate, with hand embroidery or real lace of some heavy kind such as Irish or cluny, but they still retain their air of chic and hildish simplicity.

Some new and attractive models made up in pique linen and woolen stuffs have their original note in the short sleeves which are cut in one with the body of the frock, the shoulder having no seam or slope.
